Retiring Justice Amused by Wife

WASHINGTON (AP) — The society page of a Washington newspaper carried an interview the other day with Mrs. Harold H. Burton, wife of the retiring Supreme Court justice from Ohio.

It told how Mrs. Burton wears two ear rings on one ear, none on the other. And it dealt with what the reporter described as Mrs. Burton's outrageous hats. Mrs. Burton frequently wears hats that cover one ear. Because of this, she shifts both ear rings to the exposed ear.

"Obviously," the reporter noted, "his wife's fancy headgear, her double ear ringed gimmick, give the stern-faced justice quite a kick."

Burton was amused. But this much can be stated safely: He is not stern-faced.

On the contrary, the white-haired outgoing justice has a serene expression. He talks softly, smiles frequently and without condescension.

He suggests, in short, the kind of man who can appreciate little things like funny hats and unusual ear adornments for his wife.

Life's lighter side, though, seem-
