Pumpkin Show

CIRCLEVILLE — Pumpkin Show officials are predicting a record attendance for the 67th annual festival if the good weather holds out.

Wednesday to the event attracted a record opening day crowd, according to Ed Ebert, a director of the show; attendance was estimated to be at least 50,000.

Major attractions have been planned during the four-day event.

Pat Boone, nationally known entertainer, appeared Thursday night. Three parades are on schedule during the last two days. Today the pet parade has been scheduled for 3 p.m. and the fraternal and civic organizations parade at 8 p.m.

Saturday the queen's parade will be held, with queens from festivals belonging to the Ohio Association of Festivals participating, and the All-Ohio Youth Choir will perform.

Saturday at 6 p.m. the Zane Trace High School band will present a concert. Tonight at 7 p.m. the Adelphi Community Band will perform.

Brenda Weaver, of Stoutsville, a first-grader, was selected Little Miss Pumpkin from a field of 135 contestants.
