Daylight Parade Attracts Throng

Sunshine and balmy 60-degree weather Sunday made a winner at last week's Circle-ville Pumpkin Show. Second place went to the musical parade — Score for Chillicothe's place went to the Circle-ville aggregations and the Chillicothe 39th annual Halloween Parade. try by Eloise Ford, while the All-City Junior High Band gave

For a first-time ever, the Lutheran Church's CFL float placed third and the new Day parade needs. They didn't sacrifice one bit in musicianship despite their size — 200 members. The crowd, most of whom were Carver Community members, didn't surpass September's parade's close when Zane Camp Sherman Anniversary parade.

Street Packed
Persons on the viewing stand said Second Street was packed its entire parade length—Walnut to Mulberry with persons standing five and six deep on both sides of the street.

O. O. (Pink) Overly, retired Gazette advertising manager who was one of the parade's founders was the grand marshal and toured the route in a 1928 English Bentley driven by Dr. M. Dow Scholl. Behind this came 27 antique cars ranging from a 1922 Cadillac belonging to Orville Kempton to a 1941 Cadillac belonging to Leo Davis. Between were such present-day oddities as an Essex, a Model T, Whippet, Franklin, Hupmobile, and Studebaker.

Then there were horse-drawn floats — practically enough to re-enact the Charge of the Light Brigade or the Opening of the Oklahoma Territory. Along with them was a mule, a burro and a goat.

Floats Beautiful
A whole passel of mummies justified the switch to a daytime parade. The floats — all of them — were beautiful in the sunlight and Circleville, Williamsport and Turlon once again showed us Halloween Happiness can be neighborliness, too.

Best float of the parade was the Iota Zeta Chapter of Beta Beta Beta. It was a float of the future. It was a float of the future. It was a float of the future.

Forecast
The forecast for the parade is clear. It is a day of fun and games. It is a day of fun and games. It is a day of fun and games.
