"Mother's Millions" Thoroughly Enjoyed

A small but appreciative audience witnessed the production of the comedy "Mother's Millions" which was presented Friday evening in Elks Hall, as the third number on the evening Star Festival program.

Eleanor Randall, a distinguished actress, really makes the comedy in her interpretation of the wealthy mother who has swung huge business deals but who keeps house on a minimum scale, that she may take better care of her children. She was a most lovable character, in spite of the hard shell with which she surrounded herself. Eleanor Randall played opposite Frank Bacon in "Lightnin'," and it was quite easy to imagine her in that production.

Around the character of the mother, gathered the daughter, Faire Breen, her son, Tom, her secretary, David Talbott, the villian, Pennington, and last but not least, Maria Peppy, who added much to the comedy by her clever interpretation of the housekeeper of Harriet Breen. All took their parts in a splendid fashion, but the outstanding characterization were Harriet Breen, the mother, and Maria Peppy.

The play, itself, has all the qualities of a successful comedy, humor, the love story, the villian, all the elements bringing into relief the splendid character of the mother, who, apparently so hard hearted and thinking only of money, has time so much for every one of the characters, even making Maria a railroad "Maggie," as Maria says, having invested her savings in a railroad. Taking it all in all, it was a worth while production, and most entertaining. It is to be regretted that more people did not avail themselves of the opportunity to see this play, which is brimming over with clean fun, clever lines and bright repartee.

As the closing number of the program, Earnest Powell will appear this evening and will deliver his lecture on "Banked Fires", which promises to be unusually interesting. The Mason Jubilees will share honors with Mrs. Powell in the program, presenting one of those irresistible old time negro jubilee entertainments.
