

Bainbridge Host to Multitude

From the reviewing stand, this is the view of a small portion of the sea of humanity which swept Bainbridge Sunday for the third annual Open House and dedication of the Plant Value Show House, located on Station Two.

8,000 on Hand At Open House Celebration

By BARBARA BOESER
The third annual Open House at Bainbridge was held over the weekend. The thousands who thronged to the village Sunday and Monday were a tribute to the fine work of the co-operative work.

At left, Col. Stewart S. Griffin, president of the Bainbridge Progressive Association; Mayor William F. Fry and Lt. Gen. George D. Nye break ground for the new municipal building; at right, leading the impressive parade of five bands, one from each corps and scores of floats was an honorary military corps contingent. Following the color bearers were the Bainbridge band and the beautiful Easter floral arrangement, replete with white Moonsand cross, fashioned by the Bainbridge Garden Club.

Bainbridge did not have the usual traffic and parking problems which attend every town festival. These problems, which are usually the result of the large number of automobiles, were avoided by the fact that the festival was held on the town square, which is a very small area. Area Legion Conference Well Attended
Nearly 100 delegates from South Central Ohio gathered in Chillicothe Sunday to attend the 1949 Area Legion Conference. The conference was held at the Chillicothe Hotel and was well attended.

Forger Put on Probation For Record 4-Year Term
"It is an honor to be the first that have, and the district judge says that you will be brought in and sent to prison," said Judge Howard Goldberry on Monday after considering over the week end the matter of probation for Walter Zetter, 21, who had pleaded guilty to forging a check.

Elephant Stumps Radio Prize Winner
DONORA, Pa., April 11 (AP)—What would be the use of a $200 prize if the winner is a radio prize winner? The answer is, it would be a waste of money. The prize was won by a radio prize winner.
