Memorial rites

... home with her daughter, 371 Ely St. Mrs. Speakman, widow of Homer Speakman, had three other sons who served in World War II — Virgil, of Xenia, Willard, of Jamestown and Roy, now deceased.

... Following the salute to the dead by the Company A firing squad and taps sounded by trumpeters of the band, most of the group, including the band, went to nearby St. Colman's Catholic Cemetery for the ritual of the firing squad and taps.

... At New Holland, the parade marched through the village from Arch Post, American Legion, home to the cemetery. It was led by the Adelphi band. The memorial address was delivered by the Rev. Allen Puffenberger and the invocation and benediction by the Rev. Victor Slutz.

... Memorial Day observances were held Sunday, the date proclaimed for the holiday by Congress, at Bloomingburg and Jeffersonville.
