

Imaginary Bazaar Explained At Presbyterian Group Meet

The imaginary bazaar being conducted this summer by the Women's Association of the First United Presbyterian Church was explained by Mrs. Harold Sommers at the Monday afternoon meeting of the Schwenke-Vail Group held in Westminster House. A hymn was sung and the Lord's Prayer prayed in opening the session with Mrs. Kirby Snyder, group leader, presiding.

Mrs. Sommers displayed a clever poster "Our Talents" made by Mrs. Leonard McIntire for the summer project. Members now listed on the poster along with their pledged talents were: Mrs. A. J. Waldron will sell various plants among them being petunias, marigolds and others; Mrs. Anthony J. Toerner will make divinity or fudge; Mrs. McIntire will bake special birthday cakes for children; Mrs. John Busch will take orders for size one pinafores or dresses, also do typing; Mrs. Frieda M. Lappen will take orders to make aprons; and Mrs. George C. Shaw will make place cards or tallies.

For the lesson study Mrs. Winifred Engle reviewed the 13th and 14th chapters of St. John. Mrs. Francis E. Myers used the Year Book of Prayer for the devotional service and offered prayer for missionaries of the day. She also read from a booklet "Lincoln's Vest Pocket Reference" which told of Lincoln's views on religion. The devotions closed with the hymn "This Is My Father's World."

Mrs. Carlos A. Gaffin presented the program, a review of a portion of the book "The American Indian in Tragedy and Triumph." The Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

The committee comprised of Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. John Rochester and Mrs. Sally Eberst served cookies and tea to 18 members. This was the last meeting until September.

"I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" was the hymn sung by the Smith-Work Group in opening its June meeting Monday night in Westminster House of the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Jacob Schmidt, group leader, presided.

The devotional service conducted by Mrs. Anthony J. Toerner included a prayer for missionaries, articles from Quarterly News and Guideposts, a poem "My Religion" and the hymn "The Churches One Foundation."

The Bible study subject "Not As the World Gives" from John 13 and 14 was presented by Mrs. Winifred Engle.

For the program Mrs. William Tannehill reviewed a portion of the book "The American Indian in Tragedy and Triumph" by Harold S. Faust.

A report of the recent Presbyterial meeting was presented by Mrs. Toerner. The Lord's Prayer was
