

Kingston festival winding up

KINGSTON — An antique car show will start the day at the Kinston Geranium Festival.

Today, the last day of the festival, activities are scheduled from 9 a.m. until midnight.

The antique car show begins at 9 and will last until noon when judging of the vehicles begins.

The flea market will be open all day with reduced ride prices this afternoon. Proceeds from the festival go for the upkeep of the Kingston Park.

An afternoon and evening of music begins at 1 p.m. with Final Payment. The grand parade starts a 6 p.m. with more than 100 units expected to participate.

The Adelphi Band will perform at 7 p.m. and will be followed by Teddy and the Road Rangers band with Jack Bartley. There will be square dancing until midnight with Bartley providing the caller.

The festival was reported calm and quiet Friday night after a fracas Thursday evening. Ross County Sheriff's deputies were on hand in the event of trouble but residents said the town and festival were quiet and enjoyable.

meetings
Pennsylv
where fo
new surc
Howev
an Alaba
said in a decision
seeking,
to end th

De

Elme

Clipped By:

mathew5554

Thu, Mar 21, 2019