Upper Plate Doesn't Faze Chillicothe Trumpeter				MADRID, July
An upper dental plate does not prevent Robert Franklin "Red" Huff, hot-lipped Chillicothe trumpet player, from giving out with fanfares and flourishes in the U. S. Army replacement depot band, which not only welcomes incoming troop contingents to Morocco but entertains them with military opener, then converts itself into a swing orchestra for evening performances.	Sgt. "Red" is the son of Mrs. Will Huff, 250 West Water street. His father, the late Will Huff, is remembered as a prolific writer of band numbers and as the director of the I. O. O. F. band and the Twentieth Century Band here.	twenty-three years. He made his bow to local dance circles as trumpeter with Willard Spetnagel's "Society Entertainers," a favorite with Chillicothe dancers several years ago. Later he became affiliated with several "name" bands, including orchestras directed by Jack Crawford, George Olsen, Red Nichols, Paul Sabin, Charlie Barnett and Paul Whiteman. With Whiteman, "Red" was one of the three trumpeters accompanying a girl singer in the "Queen and Three Aces" turn presented by the maestro.	and replacement with an artificial denture was the cause. He worked in a defense plant at Indianapolis for a year prior to entering the army. Then he discovered the upper plate was no handicap to his trumpet playing and he not only aided Lt. Cass in organizing the Morocco band but took over one of the trumpet posts.	All press dispatches emphasized the superiority of the left no doubt they are heavily attention points from (Dispatches from quarters in Norway said it was Madrid that cro Italy's principal ing and clamor
