

The sounds of summer

The hills come alive with the music of many groups in concerts

By JILL ZEGER

The summer, even the Adolph Band hits the big time as many musical groups appear around Ohio.

The Adolph Band, an area staple since 1880, will entertain the crowds at Columbus with "Sunset Serenade." Their marches and quick steps can be heard at 7:30 p.m. July 17 at the Ohio Village, adjacent to the Ohio Historical Society.

That concert is one of many big name groups scheduled around the area until Labor Day. Following is a listing that will fill any vacation or weekend with the sound of music.
