17th Hallsville Indian Summer Festival to benefit community center

Hallsville will welcome the warm days of fall this weekend with its 17th annual Indian Summer Festival.

Scheduled to begin Thursday evening, organizer Min Courtright said the group hopes to raise $6,000 this year.

The festival is run by a non-profit organization for the promotion of the 15-acre Hallsville Community Center.

"It's not like a lot of other festi- vals because the money basically goes to the community center," Courtright said.

New this year is a lip sync contest for all ages and some new games including a putt-putt golf course, she said.

Courtright said that this year's proceeds will go towards paying for lighting recently installed at the center.

The festival, on Ohio 180, runs through Sunday afternoon.
