Participants could look toward the past and glimpse the future at Sunday's Fall Fest and Tour of Homes. Three older homes were opened for viewing as well as museums and Bennington's historic law office. Looking forward, The Circleville Herald presented a demonstration of a recently installed new computer system and GTE opened its facilities for touring. Highlights of the fest included a basket display, carriage rides, a quilt show and button collections. The Pumpkin Show Band and Adelphi Band performed. "I thought it was a positive event, although we had a disappointing turnout," said Earl Palm, president of the Pickaway County Historical Society, sponsor of the event. "We appreciate our supporters within the community and our volunteers."
